40th Anniversary Of Falklands War

1) 40 years ago, the Falklands war took place
    That brought tears of sadness to plenty a face
    Argentina invaded the Falkland Islands on the 2nd April 1982
    Which the British Army were very quick to respond to
    Lots of brave British Soldiers we'll remember forever
    Let slip our minds again never

2) The UK, which had ruled the islands for 150 years, quickly chose to fight
    Though it was to bring many an upsetting sight
    In the battle that followed 655 Argentine and 255 British servicemen unfortunately did die
    And I say that without a lie
    Lots of brave British Soldiers we'll remember forever
    Let slip our minds again never

3) As the Royal Navy, RAF and lots of brave British Soldiers all showed their face
    A 74-day unnice war took place
    Regularly updated on the British TV
    With lots of unpleasant news to see
    Lots of brave British Soldiers we'll remember forever
    Let slip our minds again never

4) Then to be relieved by quite a few
    The British forces regained control of the Falklands on the 14th June 1982
    And though some people had sadly lost a friend
    The war had finally come to an end
    Lots of brave British Soldiers we'll remember forever
    Let slip our minds again never

5) Today we look back on the Falklands war
    Which lots of British gave their lives for Giving a moments silence in Remembrance
    Whilst having many a special church service attendance
    Lots of brave British Soldiers we'll remember forever
    Let slip our minds again never

© Paul Wilkins 29/05/2022