

Andy Murray – British Wimbledon Champion 2013

1. Andy Murray's this year at Wimbledon been given lots and lots of cheers
Having him become the first British player to lift the men's trophy for 77 years
Yes with lots of good tennis play and splendid shot tricks
He's now at last repeated what Fred Perry did in the year 1936
2. With Andy trying to play good shots very extremely hard
He's now in 2 finals defeated Novak Djokovic to earn plenty of due regard
Having beat him in the US Open earlier last year
Andy's now triumphed over him in a Wimbledon final
Through performing in top gear
3. Yes Andy's now holding the Wimbledon Trophy with a very big grin
And with many a relation and fan's celebration deeply has joined in Sue Barker, John McEnroe and other commentators were stuck what to say
On this for all the British public a tremendously special day
4. As Andy won a Gold and Silver Medal in last year's Olympic Games too
He's population-wise overall now impressing really quite a few
I'm sure he'll get BBC 'Sports Personality of The Year' Award 2013
With such all round great talent to by him be seen
5. With Andy through Ivan Lendl's coaching fully performing like he should It'll be no surprise if he doesn't also get given true Knighthood
In winning Wimbledon he's had every British person feeling completely great
And that's delightfully clear without the slightest bit of debate
